RE: Broadcasting Rights

Information regarding media broadcasting rights for high school games as well as broadcast rights to IHSAA sponsored state tournament games.

- Regular season games at all levels: Host schools own property rights. Each school that hosts a regular season game can choose who broadcasts those games as well as compensation for the school.
- District tournament games: District Boards of Control own property rights. The Board of Control as a whole decides who broadcasts those games as well as compensation for the district.
- IHSAA state sponsored play-in and IHSAA state sponsored tournament games: The IHSAA own property rights. The IHSAA Board of Directors decides who broadcasts those events as well as compensation for the activities association.

The IHSAA sponsors the following state tournaments:
